(Making a phone call) Xiaosongpingzi: Hello!

Company Staff: Hello, is that Xiaosongpingzi?

Xiaosongpingzi: Yes, this is.

Company Staff: Hello, I'm the HR manager of Mai Gu Advertising Company. I'm calling to inform you that you have been admitted by our planning department. Congratulations, and welcome you to join Mai Gu Company.

Xiaosongpingzi: Really?! Thank you so much! When should I go to the company for registration?

Company Staff: The first day of next month will be good. Please remember to bring all your documents, including passport, student ID and university-approved internship certificate. At 10 o'clock that day is the orientation for new employees. You can come over after 9:00, and go through the registration procedures before the orientation.

Xiaosongpingzi: OK.

Xiaosongpingzi: Hello, I am the new intern at the planning department. My name is Xiaosongpingzi.

Company Staff: Hi, follow me please...this is your desk and personal computer. Continue on this way, to your left is the restroom, and to your right is the coffee and beverage counter. Over there are the other departments of our company. At the very end is the general manager's office. If you want to talk with him on something, you could make an appointment at his secretary's.

Mike: Xiaosong!

Xiaosongpingzi: Ah, hello!

Mike: How is everything going? Have you finished all the procedures?

Xiaosongpingzi: Yes, thank you very much!

Mike: Em...if you need anything else, just let me know. My office is the one at the very end.

By the way, did Meimei tell you that we have a party tonight? Please come with us.

Xiaosongpingzi: Oh? I haven't talked to her since I came here...ok then, see you tonight.

Mike: See you tonight.

LANGUAGE NOTES

- ①喂wéi It is "hello" when you making a call. This is how one starts a conversation on the telephone.
- ②被bèi The pattern "A+被+B +V.+了" is the passive construction in Chinese, which has the same function as "B+V.+A". For example, 他吃汉堡。(Tā chī hàn bǎo) "he ate a hamburger". This sentence can be transferred into passive pattern: 汉堡被他吃了。(Hàn bǎo bèi tā chī le) "The hamburger is eaten by him". In the text, 你 (you) is A, 公司的策划部 (strategy department of the company) is B, and 录取 (enroll) is the verb.
- ③同时tóng shí 同时is an adverb used before the verb. It literally means "meanwhile, at the same time".
- 4当天dāng tiān It means "on that day". Normally, the context will indicate on which day it refers to before this word.
- ⑤9点多jiǔ dián duō 多means "over, more", which can be added after numbers or some measure words. Here it means "over 9 o'clock".
- ⑥先....., 再..... xiān ... zài ... First..., and then ...
- (7)另外lìng wài "Furthermore" "on the other hand"

Professor Jin: What happened?

Xiaosongpingzi: Because I am now working as an intern at a company.

Professor Jin: We have four HSK exams on that day. One is at 5:00 in the afternoon. So I am afraid that you still have to come.

Xiao Song Pingzi: I could come, but surly cannot catch up on the exam.

Professor Jin: It starts at 5:00. You still cannot make it?

Xiaosongpingzi: Technically, I could make it. But I am afraid there may be some urgent things coming up at work. Plus, that time is the evening peak time, the traffic is really bad.

Professor Jin: All right, never mind. I will find someone else.

Wang Ming: Excuse me, are you John?

John: Yes, I am.

Wang Ming: Xiaosong asked me to tell you that 5:00pm tomorrow afternoon is the HSK test.

Don't forget to bring two photos (of you), admission card and your passport. You can download the registration form directly from the Internet, and bring it with you, too.

John: Ok, thanks.

Wang Ming: By the way, I am Wang Ming, Linda's classmate. When we have a chance, we could hang out together in the future.

John: Ah...Great! Keep in touch.

Wang Ming: Well, good luck with you exam!

LANGUAGE NOTES

- ①让ràng 让+somebody+V. =ask somebody to do sth.
- ②倒是dào shì 倒 is used to denote a transition or concession. You will always find a 但 (是) or 可(是) after the first sentence.
